JORGE JUAN

An unexpected location in the heart of the Salamanca quarter.

This building was built by Francisco de Cubas in the 19th century and is located on the first floor with five balconies overlooking Calle Jorge Juan. Access is via a monumental staircase made out of Carrara marble.

It has been renovated in accordance with a sympathetic architectural and interior-design project which has sought to preserve the essence of the original building while combining it with contemporary features.

Nearest metro: Serrano or Velázquez*
